Please see the below memo from the Office of Culture, Ethics, and Compliance.

Dear Colleagues,

The Office of Culture, Ethics, and Compliance (OCEC) is collecting data on the use and awareness of the USC Research Training Finder, which can be found at: https://researchtrainingfinder.usc.edu/. The Training Finder is a website that assists researchers, research staff, and research administrators in determining what compliance-related training courses are available and/or required at USC.

OCEC has created a survey designed to learn more about your experiences with the Research Training Finder. The data collected will be used to gauge current use and experience with the site and work to improve the tool to help meet the compliance training needs of those that work in research at USC. The survey should take no more than 5 minutes to complete.

Please click the link below to start the survey. Thank you for your participation.
